EMBRYO DOCTORS ARE WHITEWASHED

Arts Win Hockey Game by 2-0

Clever passing and brilliant checking were the features of Arts 2-0 victory over Medicine in the Holiday Hockey League final played on the Mens Rink on Saturday.

The play was fast and clean throughout, no penalties being imposed. There was very little to choose between the teams, the passing being good in both cases, though Arts had a slight edge in checking.

For the first half of the initial period, the Arts goalie, Munro, had little to do, the puck being entirely in the Medicine territory for at least eight minutes. Harris caught Routledge unawares and sent the first point in for Arts at 3:45 minutes after the start of the game.

The last minutes of the first period kept Munro busy. The puck shifted down the ice to the Arts' nets, and the goalkeeper was given no opportunities to sleep.

After the rest period, the men came back much stronger, and the second period saw a much faster display of hockey. Both goalies were kept busy, though Munro undoubtedly had the worst of it. Only brilliant work on the goalkeeper's part kept the embryo doctors from scoring.

Half the final period had passed before Arts scored again. McLean took the puck up the ice, but went into a corner; a scrimmage followed in front of the Med. goal, from which the puck was passed back to Johnson, who sent through the massed players for the final goal of the game.

From then on the Arts team devoted their efforts to protecting their goal. Meds. attacked desperately, and were only prevented by hard luck from scoring. On two occasions they broke right through the Arts defence, only to find Munro invincible.

Lanthier hit the posts with a shot which was ticketed for a goal. Meds. relied on individual play, and missed many opportunities of scoring by not passing in front of the nets. Arts checked back heavily, but lacked the team play they displayed in the first period.

An enthusiastic crowd of spectators witnessed the final game, and declared it the best of the season.

Both teams played good hockey, and showed splendid condition.

HEALTH OF NATION SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Its Dependence on Care of the Mother

The Physiological Society will hold its next meeting in the Biological Building on Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 8:15 p.m. An address will be given by Dr. Wells on the following subject: "The health of the nation in future generations will depend entirely upon the mother." The speaker will develop this theme from the point of view of diet, showing the effect of the latter upon the teeth, and dealing particularly with the anti-scorbutic vitamin. Dr. Wells has studied and is still studying this problem in most exhaustive manner; he will therefore be in a position to give the fullest and most recent information on the subject. The address will be illustrated by lantern-slides of micro-photographs.

The executive feel that such an exceptional opportunity of listening to the results of original research work should not be missed by anyone who can possibly turn out tomorrow night. None are over-familiar with the topic to be discussed, though many may have an idea of its importance. Those who are at all hazy on any point will be able at the meeting to ask questions and to have such points made clear. Graduates medical students and dental students will find the meeting to be of the highest interest and profit; all who care to attend, whether members of the Society or not, are very cordially invited.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

McGILL JRS. DRAW WITH NATIONALS

Fast and Snappy Game Played Saturday

SCORE 1-1

McGill Handicapped by Lack of Team Practice

Saturday afternoon, at the Mount Royal Arena, the McGill Junior Hockey team played their first scheduled game of the season, which resulted in a draw. Their opponents were the juniors of the National A.A.A., who put up a fast and aggressive team on the ice, and forced the Red and White to extend themselves to the limit.

The McGill team was handicapped by reason of not having had any practice together, but brilliant individual rushes and strong back checking enabled them to more than hold their own.

The game started with a rush, and a fast clip was maintained throughout the period. The McGill men bored in repeatedly, several times breaking through but were unable to score. The Nationals contented themselves with taking long shots outside the defence, and pursued these tactics through the game. Fairbanks in goal for McGill pulled off several brilliant saves, and a great deal of credit is due him for his work. After seven minutes Gordon, who put up a great exhibition of hockey, broke through and scored McGill's only goal. The French team continued to press, but the McGill defence held them out. Finally, however, as the result of a mix-up in front of the McGill goal, they equalized the score when Larivee batted in the puck. The bell sounded shortly after for the conclusion of the period.

In the second half the team extended themselves to the utmost, but neither was able to score, although McGill netted one that was called offside. The work of both goalies was excellent, and the steady back checking of the team prevented the tie being broken. Abbott worked hard and was constantly in the thick of things, being instrumental in stopping several dangerous rushes, and giving the National goalies lots of trouble. The rest of the team also showed to advantage.

The line-up was as follows:

McGill.	National.

Fairbanks	Comeau

FACULTY ENTER DRAMATIC FIELD

Thirty Members of the Staff to Take Part

Several reports and rumours have been going around college with regard to the "Faculty Plays." The "Daily" is now at liberty to state officially that five plays will be given by members of the Faculty of McGill University on Thursday, February 8th, at the R.V.C.

Students who were at college two years ago will remember the five "Diminutive Dramas" given by the Faculty then. These were greatly enjoyed, and are still talked about in college circles. The programme this year seems to be as attractive as then, if not more so. Three of the plays will be of a similar kind as those given before; that is, there will be three diminutive dramas, two classical, and one from English History, a famous scene from the life of King Alfred. Dr. Stephen Leacock's "Behind the Beyond" will be given in Dumb Show, and a French play will be put on by the French Department.

Fifteen well known and popular professors will take part in these plays, some of whom appeared two years ago, and others who will make their debut in the dramatic world on that day.

BARON BYNG HAS MESSAGE FOR STUDENTS

To Speak in R. V. C. Tomorrow

AT 5.00

Students Eager to Hear the Governor-General

Tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock His Excellency the Right Honourable Lord Byng of Vimy, G. C. B., G. C. M. G., M. V. O., Governor-General of Canada and Visitor of McGill University, will address the student body in the Convocation Hall of the R. V. C. For this occasion His Excellency has a message which will be of special interest and of vital concern to the undergraduates and coming as it does from our Governor-General, it will carry a great deal of weight.

Few speakers are as welcomed to McGill as Baron Byng. Former "Byng Boys" are looking forward with a great enthusiasm to hearing their former Commander and those students who have just returned from the Conference in Toronto, at which His Excellency gave the opening address, are very anxious to hear from him again, while the rest of the students are eager to hear their Governor-General.

This year the McGill Canadian Club have had six men, all of them distinguished in their positions in public life, speak under its auspices but the executive consider that they are extremely fortunate in having Lord Byng address the student body. His Excellency is a forceful speaker. Living a soldier's life and rising quickly as a leader of men, has made him a man whose views on definite subjects and critical issues are always listened to carefully. All his addresses are frank and candid which make him a speaker who is always interesting and enlightening.

Lord Byng has had an illustrious and meteoric career since joining the Royal Hussars in 1883. During the Sudan Expedition and the South African War the present Lord Byng served with great distinction and rose to the rank of colonel besides being mentioned in despatches and gaining several decorations. During the last War his record is now well known and the title he received of "Lord Byng of Vimy" bears witness to his great victory at Vimy Ridge in April, 1917.

MEETING OF GLEE CLUB IN STRATHCONA TONIGHT

The Glee Club will hold its first practice tonight at seven in the Strathcona Hall. As the club is just commencing practices on the new selections for the coming spring concert, it is an opportune time for new men to join the club.

It is indeed an opportunity when music such as Glee Club is offering can be studied under capable and inspiring leadership. The work offers a world of enjoyment to any man desiring to join the club and demands little time in exchange. This evening at seven at the Hall.

Absent-minded medical school professor, to class: "I will now give a practical demonstration of the fundamental principles of anatomy, by exhibiting the inner workings of a frog which I dissected this morning." Taking a small neat package from his pocket, he cut the twine and folded back the paper, disclosing two ham sandwiches and a piece of cake. "Most peculiar," stammered the bewildered professor, "I could swear I ate my lunch!"

HOCKEY TEAM IS READY FOR U. OF M. GAME

All Players Fit With Exception of Lynch

INITIAL GAME

Tough Battle Predicted for Wednesday Night

After a strenuous holiday tour through the States, in which they participated in no less than six contests on the ice, the McGill hockey players over the week-end availed themselves of the opportunity of gaining a much needed rest. The men were worked to the limit on the Christmas trip and with only two days remaining before the opening of the intercollegiate series Coach Shaughnessy is taking no chances of having the team go stale. The entire squad, with the single exception of Lynch shows no ill-effects of the excursion. In fact, the strenuous work-out is just what was needed to round the team into condition, and at present the players individually are in close to tip-top shape. Jack Lynch is still out of the game as the result of an injury incurred in the initial contest with Boston College. In that game the diminutive forward received a nasty cut on the head from a skate, it necessitating four stitches to close the wound. Lynch's absence from the line-up will be keenly felt on Wednesday as McGill is much in need of a competent left wing.

No new material of the greatest value has been unearthed on the recent trip, although Morris in goals has been playing a consistent game and defending the nets in championship style. Dempsey and McGerrigle have been playing their usual good game although up to the present they have not displayed anything exceptionally brilliant. In the later games they have, however, shown a marked superiority over their earlier form, and still further consistent improvement may be looked for as the season progresses. Flanagan is strong. The only sure shot, and one of the speediest men in intercollegiate hockey, the big Red and White forward is looked upon as the man to find the U. of M. nets on Wednesday night. The problem which is presenting the most persistent front to Shaw is that of filling the post at left wing. Lynch's injury is very unfortunate and some difficulty is being found in providing an adequate for the midjet forward. Bobby Bell, the flashy Freshman from Westminster High, will probably start in the forward position. The team feels hampered by a lack of adequate substitutes, and with the exception of that of Flanagan, the shooting of the team is not beyond reproach.

According to reports U. of M. are in fine shape and have been coming along in fine style. Desbiens and the La Marre brothers are at the top of their form, and everything points to a tough and close battle, when McGill clashes for the first time with the new-comers to the Intercollegiate League.

SASKATCHEWAN PRINCIPAL HERE

Rev. Dr. Oliver Speaks on Western Conditions

Before a large congregation in Erskine Church yesterday morning, which included many McGill students, Rev. E. H. Oliver, M.A., Ph.D., Principal of the Saskatchewan Presbyterian College, clearly and eloquently described religious conditions in the West. Principal Oliver is the guest of Mr. Wm. M. Brins, a Governor of McGill University, while in the city. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto, and received the degree of Ph.D. at Columbia. One of the leading chaplains overseas, he was Principal of the "Khaki University."

Dr. Oliver has spent fourteen years in the West, has just completed a special report for the Saskatchewan Government on the educational conditions surrounding the foreign settlers in that province, and knows the West thoroughly. In Montreal he took the opportunity of renewing his many overseas friendships, being deservedly popular with all denominations.

Principal Oliver is an out and out Church Unionist and in his address mentioned many points where the people tired of waiting for official action from the slow moving ecclesiastical bodies had gone ahead and in the interests of economy broadmindedness and Christian-

A COURSE IN CONTEMPORARY CULTURE.

To many observers of the current trend of art, and more particularly of literature, it may seem that we are to-day at the beginning of a period of renaissance that will have a lasting and not insignificant place in the history of letters. The revival of interest in poetry which has made itself manifest in England and the United States during the last decade has resulted in the production of a large mass of excellent work, and the establishment of reforms in technique and in usage governing the choice of subject matter as radical and far-reaching as those initiated by Wordsworth and his contemporaries at the beginning of an earlier great epoch. The novel, too, in the contemporary world is presenting an original and vital contribution to art. In spite of the misrepresentation of conservatism which levels its criticisms at the mediocre work of the time as if this were our sole production, and ignores the fiction of real genius that is to-day fulfilling to the highest degree the function of art as a criticism of life, the opinion is held by many that work is being produced by men of letters to-day that is worthy of the attention of the student. Although the ultimate worth of contemporary art is a question upon which posterity alone can judge, it seems that it has a value and cultural significance that is unique.

In recognition of these considerations some few colleges have inaugurated a course in present day literature, while some others have incorporated in their curricula a more extensive and perhaps more valuable course on contemporary civilization. Such a course or courses might with advantage be introduced in more universities. The field covered could be made as extensive or as specialized as time and the needs of the student might call for, while a course restricted to the field of literature would of necessity be selective, and would allow for wide discrimination in the choice of works considered. In the study of a literary epoch of the past it is necessary from the historical standpoint to consider minor and even mediocre authors, but in the study of contemporary work intrinsic worth would be the only standard. Many would derive more pleasure and benefit from, say, "The Everlasting Mercy," than from "The Sofa," or find a knowledge of the work of Shaw, Barrie, and Galsworthy of greater value than that of the minor Elizabethans or the playwrights of the Restoration.

Such a course, we must recognize, cannot be allowed to take the place of the study of the older classics whose truth and beauty have consecrated them for all time, but as a final, and very necessary rounding off of the knowledge of the past we feel that there is need of some study of the fine new things of our own day, in which we as students must be vitally interested, not only in the critical and appreciative sense, but also perhaps from the creative viewpoint.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

McGill is to be honoured to-morrow by the appearance of the Governor-General before the Student Body. The undergraduates require no urging through this medium towards representative attendance; previous meetings of the Canadian Club, by whose efforts to-morrow afternoon's gathering has been arranged, held this session, all serve to demonstrate that the McGill student will make it a point to be present when he is assured that his time will be well spent. It would be impertinent to remind that same student of the urgency of his attendance at the Canadian Club on the occasion here referred to.

LOWDEN URGES U.S. TO ASSIST EUROPE

Former Illinois Governor Addresses Students

That the moral influence of the United States in Europe was never so high as it is now and that this country should recognize this fact and take greater action in European affairs is the opinion of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, who spoke before an audience of 800 in the first of a series of all-university convocations directed by the Wisconsin Union.

"Europeans look to the American nation as the only nation in the world which is not covetous of territory, which is not seeking trade advantages, which can help the struggling nations out of their predicaments," Mr. Lowden declared.

"It is a question of how long we do not exercise just a little bit more shall be able to hold that influence if action and eschew our policy of splendid isolation."

"Representatives of the nations in charge of the Rhineland territory look upon the time with fear and trembling when the last American soldier is withdrawn from those parts."

"The Yankee has created a feeling of good will among the Germans of that territory. The American flag over Coblenz is a symbol of safety and peace in the occupied land. "Not only the French, English and Belgians, but also the Germans want that flag to continue its guard over the territory."

In speaking of the problems which face the statement of Europe, Mr. Lowden stated that those problems would be greatly minimized if the reparations, placed upon Germany, were revised within reason.

He asserted that the present reparations could never be paid by Germany and that foreign exchange could not return to normal while such demands were diminished.

Contrary to what is the general opinion of superficial observers in Europe, France is nearer pre-war conditions than is its neighbor across the Rhine, according to Mr. Lowden. Statistics show, he declared, that the efficiency of the French workman has increased 100 per cent since the war, while that of the German workman has increased only 50 per cent.

The cause for the comparatively slight increase in efficiency of the German workman is the tremendous depreciation in their currency.

Mr. Lowden concluded his address by advocating an increase in the salary of our ambassadors, foreign ministers and secretaries.

"American representatives in foreign countries can not compete with other representatives because they are not in the field for a sufficient length of time to learn their trade."

"The remunerations for their services are not enough to allow the most capable man in this country to enter the foreign service."

VACANCIES IN CIVIL SERVICE

Excellent Openings for College Graduates

Prof. R. M. Sugars, of the School of Commerce, has received a letter through the Principal who wishes to give publicity to a position which is now vacant in the Dominion Bureau statistics.

It is thought by the Principal that the Daily would be an excellent way in bringing opportunity before the eyes of the students.

The Civil Service Commission announces open competitive examinations for the following positions:—

PRINCIPAL STATISTICAL CLERK, $1,800.

4849. A Principal Statistical Clerk (male), in the Mining, Metallurgical and Chemistry Branch, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, at an initial salary of $1,800 per annum, which will be increased upon recommendation for efficient service at the rate of $120 per annum, until a maximum of $2,280 has been reached. This salary will be supplemented by whatever bonus may be provided by law.

Qualifications Required: Education equivalent to graduation in chemistry from a university of recognized standing; at least two years' experience in industrial chemical work; supervisory ability; considerable knowledge of modern office methods. Nature of Examinations: Rating on Education and Experience, will be given from the sworn statements submitted by applicants on their application forms. To those who qualify, an oral examination may be given, if necessary.

There is at present only one vacancy, as above but an eligible list may be established, as a result of this competition, for this and similar positions.

The age limit does not apply to such candidates.

Ottawa, January 2, 1923. Secretary.

CO-EDS SCORN THE WAYS OF EASE.

Parlor cars, Pullmans, and all the conveniences of travel may be all right for some but it is too effeminate for two co-eds who made the trip to Chicago Saturday by the simple process of walking and catching a ride whenever the opportunity presented itself.

Starting out early Friday morning the girls took the state trunk highway for Milwaukee. They had not gone far when the first autoist offered them a lift and the trip to Milwaukee was accomplished speedily.

They did not lose any time in getting their way and were soon going along the lake shore toward the Midway by the same means of conveyance. They reached Chicago about dark and spent the night with friends. Saturday morning they succumbed to the feminine instincts and went shopping in the loop.

They watched the game along with some 10,000 other Badger rooters and returned to their friends' home to borrow some clothes and take in a theatre performance.

Starting out early Sunday morning, they hit the sawdust trail in an Evanston Church and then hit the macadam for Milwaukee again. They made good time on the return trip and arrived in Madison about 8 o'clock Sunday night.

"A wonderful trip and a wonderful game," they said. "If you want to enjoy a football game that is the way to do it."

OTHER CAMPUSES

There is difference of opinion among students at Indiana university as to whether or not one week should be set aside every year when co-eds ask men for dates. Many of the men approve of the plan on the basis that it would be something new but most of the women object on the grounds that it would not work. The idea is tradition at some other institutions and is called "leap week" in reference to the custom prevailing during leap-year.

At a meeting of the Women's Athletic Association held at Purdue University Dean Shoemaker requested that all co-eds wishing to participate in athletics must present a health certificate by a physician of their home town immediately after the New Year. She stipulated that all girls must comply with this rule or drop all athletic work. It was decided to establish hiking as a co-ed sport and the rules regarding points for the obtaining of crests and sweaters would be given.

Increased appropriations, amounting to $429,500 will be asked of the State Legislature for Iowa State University by the Board of Education in its reports to the Fortieth General Assembly this month. The amount, which is described is the minimum that will be adequate to meet the actual needs of the ever growing student body and to allow the college to increase the scope of its work.

The Pacific and Northwestern inter-collegiate oratorical contest will be held on the O.A.C. campus this spring. The contests will be the winners of the state inter-collegiate contests in Montana, Washington, Idaho, California and Oregon. Both men and women are eligible in the local elimination contest. The freshmen and sophomores will hold their elimination first and the juniors and seniors will follow. The subject of the oration have been handed in before Christmas and severe criticism has been passed upon them.

The spirit of Utah College is directed towards the spring sports. The Utah intercollegiate swimming meet will be held in Logan March 17th, and the state wrestling meet in Provo on March 24. The rules governing these meets will be decided by a meeting of coaches in Salt Lake City. It was decided to add the two-mile event to the track and field programme. Three different schools will play baseball with seven inning games.

WIDENING RIVER LEA

More than a thousand workmen are at present engaged in a remarkable attempt to widen 15 miles of the River Lea in a record time of four months so as to enable much larger vessels to penetrate from the Thames as far as the county town of Hertford. Navigation will be closed on the upper part of the river, between Enfield Lock and Ware (famous in the ballad of "John Gilpin") and because of the dislocation of both water and road traffic, gangs will work day and night.

The River Lea is a trifling stream, even when compared to the Thames, but it has played a notable part in the rough island story of England. There was a day when Alfred the Great captured London from the Danes, and afterward defeated them at Benfleet. But the Danes, if defeated, were not discouraged, and in a further attempt to gain possession of London, they took a large flotilla of galleys up the River Lea to Smith's stronghold in the forest about Ware, intending to spend the winter in recruiting, and be ready for the attack in the spring. Alfred did not wait for the attack; he struck the first blow, and struck it by diverting the waters of the Lea into three channels so that the Danish ships were left high and dry inland, and the Danes themselves could only escape by flying across the enemy's country.

So long ago as 1424 provision was made by Parliament for the navigation of the Lea, and Elizabeth made that navigation better by the formation of a "new cut" from London to Ware, and 10 years later the river was cleansed and widened as far as that town. The Star Chamber declared it to be free for barges and boats, and further improvements were made by the formation of new canals out of or into the river between Hertford and Bromley.

It will be seen that the present work is only a continuation of what has been going on intermittently for more than 500 years. Nine wooden locks and two bridges are to be replaced, the former by concrete locks 14 feet wider, permitting the passage of larger boats, and the latter by larger spans, which, moreover, provide a wider roadway. The old English bridge at Waltham Cross is one of those which is being demolished. Iron dams are being placed in position 100 yards on either side of the bridges, to enable the river-bed to be pumped dry at these points.

The effect of the whole work will be that the River Lea will be made wide enough to enable vessels of 100 tons to be navigated from London to Hertford. Everything is to be finished by Christmas, and the river on which Alfred the Great played "ducks and drakes" with the Danes so to speak, made more useful in the arts of peace than it has been at any time during the last 1000 years.

MISSUSED WORDS

The decadence in style which is so apparent in nearly all modern writing, is naturally producing its effect upon everyday conversation. The intellect is singularly receptive and imitative with a result that constant reading of phrases which contain words used in their wrong sense leads one unconsciously to similar errors in his own spoken sentences. It is well therefore to pause for a moment from time to time to refresh our acquaintance with those fine distinctions, the observation of which stamps speaker or writer as one who respects the vehicle which conveys his thought.

"Decided," for instance, means "strong"; "decisive" means "final"; a decided opinion is quite different from a decisive opinion. "Each other" should never be used for "one another"; "guess" is loosely used for "suppose", "expect", or "intend", but is avoided by the best writers; "party" should never be used for "person"; "further" means "additional", "farther" refers to distance; "propose", meaning "to offer" should not be confused with "purpose", meaning "to intend"; "discover" is to find something which previously existed; "invent" is to produce something for the first time; "locate" is a vulgarism, when used for "settle"; "perception" means the inlet of all the materials of knowledge; "appreciation" means the knowledge that one possesses these materials; a man with perception knows, a man with appreciation knows that he knows.

Plurals of foreign words should be carefully ascertained. "Memorands", for instance, is plural, not singular. Errors are often made in the tenses, neglecting the idea that the time of the recorded action in the subordinate portion of a sentence is relative to the time of the principal clause; for example, in reply to a formal invitation, "Mr. John Smith regrets that a previous engagement of his prevented him from attending."

McGILL FIVE BEATS FAST ENGINEERS

Red and White Excel in Passing

Score 39-14

Strenuous Play in Game at Molson Hall

The Intermediate "B" basketball team scored their second victory of the season when they downed the Canadian Engineers, runners-up for Junior City League honours last year. The game was a strenuous one, with many personal fouls being handed out. McGill was superior in all departments, excelling particularly in ability to work the ball right under their opponents' basket, giving Davis a good chance to score from that position. Capt. Starke worked very hard, and was in the play at all times, while Shpritzer, although closely watched, scored three difficult shots and played a strong defensive game. Engineers scored four field baskets, Booth getting three of them.

Starke got the jump at centre, and Davis scored the first points on a shot from a considerable distance out. The ball was then worked close to the Engineers' basket, and Cummings and Davis each scored. Whittall opened the scoring for the Engineers on a field shot, and this proved to be their last field score in the first half. The McGill defence was working hard, and forcing the visitors' forwards to shoot from a distance. Davis scored a field basket, followed by Harrison, who secured two points in the same manner. Penalties were being generously donated, and Davis scored five points in this way in the first period. Connor worked the ball up the floor and scored, but was injured and forced to leave the floor. Davis scored again, although closely watched, and Shpritzer obtained four points for his team by two difficult baskets in rapid succession. Starke and Davis then scored, followed by Shpritzer and Cummings. The score stood 28-6 for McGill when half time came.

Booth opened the scoring in the second half, and Davis made two free shots count. Play became very strenuous, but the college team continued to score. Harrison got two free shots, followed by Davis scoring twice. Each time the McGill forward was closely checked, but managed to break away and score. Harrison again scored two free shots. Cummings came up from the defence and dropped the ball in. Booth scored his second basket, and after time was called to permit Rapp to replace Quackenbush, the visiting forward scored again. Quackenbush came up for Cummings, who had been hurt earlier in the half, but had continued to play. Rapp ended the scoring on a shot from the side. The final whistle blew with McGill on the long end of a 39-14 score.

The teams:
McGill, Nelson, Shpritzer, Buchanan, Davis, Booth, Starke, Whittall, Connor, Harrison, Cummings, Myers, Quackenbush.

CITY LEAGUE JUNIOR GAME WON BY W.A.A.A.

Close Game at Molson Hall on Saturday

SCORE 25-24

Capacity Crowd Shows Need for Larger Gymnasium

Walker's beautiful basket from half-way down the floor put Westmount A.A.A. in the lead in the final moments of a hard fought Junior City League game at Molson Hall on Saturday night, and won the game for Westmount, as there was no further scoring. The game was a thriller from start to finish, but was characterized by poor shooting by both teams. The Westmount team appeared to be much lighter than the University team, but made up for this by their fast work and ability to break away quickly. Every player on the Junior team worked hard, and their ability to check back and bring a five man defence into play was very evident.

When Referee Eddie Pugh, of the Railway Y.M.C.A. called the teams to the floor a fair-sized crowd was present, filling up all the available benches in the gym. Grimsom got the jump at centre, and both sides tried hard to make the first points. Capt. Woodhouse then scored two free shots, and a moment later scored two more. Play continued fast, but both sides were playing a hard, defensive game. Norton notched the first field basket from under the basket. Walker then scored a free shot for the visitors, and a moment later scored again, closely followed by a basket contributed by Black. Ferguson, who had replaced Norton, scored on a pretty side shot, and after Black and Walker had again scored for W.A.A.A., Ferguson put McGill ahead with a side shot. Half time was called just as Walker dropped in a free shot, the period ending 10 all.

Butler, McGill guard, was injured shortly after play began in the second stanza, but continued to play. He and Bustin were working well together on the defence, smothering many promising rushes by the visiting forwards. Black opened the scoring in this period, followed by Walker. Woodhouse secured McGill's first point on a free shot, and a moment later scored on a running shot. Butler then worked the ball up the floor, and scored, and repeated soon after the face-off. Forster evened up the score, making it 17 all. Excitement was very intense at this juncture, with the McGill supporters imploring the Juniors to get ahead. Their spirits fell for a time, however, when Walker scored on a long, pretty shot. Woodhouse obtained one point on a free shot, and Walker scored again. Bustin scored from a throw-in, followed by Black and Grimsom. The score stood 23-22 for Westmount, but Ferguson again delighted the Red and White supporters by putting McGill one point ahead. Walker dropped the ball in from the centre of the floor, and play became very strenuous. However, Walker's difficult shot proved to be the last score of the game, and the score stood Westmount 25, McGill 24, when the final whistle blew.

MED. JUNIOR TEAM DEFEAT R.V.H.

Exciting Hockey Game Results in 6-0

A very interesting game of hockey between Med. '24 and the R. V. H. Interns was played at the Campus Rink on Saturday afternoon, from 4.15 to 5.15. This was a rare treat for Med. '24, who, after a fine display, defeated the Interns of the Royal Victoria Hospital by a margin of 6-0.

The "Docs." made a good showing, and deserve much praise. This was their first appearance on the ice, and though they were unsuccessful in making a score, their persistent efforts were admirable, and showed signs of a promising future, providing that they stick to the game.

The Meds., especially in the last period, set the pace throughout, and kept up the interest of the game by their peculiar tactics.

The first Inter-class game will be played on Thursday, January 9, at 6.15 p.m., and an exciting time is expected.

ROOTER'S BAND HOLD PRACTICE AT UNION

Good Turn-out Expected for First Game.

Owing to the fact that the first game in the Intercollegiate Hockey League is to be played on Wednesday, Jan. 10th, against the University of Montreal, it is necessary that a practice of the Rooters' Band should be held to-night at 5 o'clock, in the Union.

Nobody can tell the comparative strength of these teams, but it is a well known fact that a great deal depends on the first game, but we do know that the Rooters' Band will be an important factor in deciding the game.

In order to give our team every chance possible, a large gathering of students should turn out, and with the help of the band give a strong support to the team on Wednesday night.

SKI & SNOWSHOE MEN IN ACTION

Club Holds Practice Competition at Stadium

The practice events run off on Saturday afternoon by the Ski and Snowshoe Club at the Stadium proved to be a great success from every point of view. There was a large turnout both of competitors and spectators in spite of the extremely cold weather and poor snow conditions, so that future practice meets staged under more favorable conditions should see an even larger number of men taking part. The events consist of two 100 yard dashes on skis, and one snowshoe dash of 100 yards. Every race was closely contested, with not more than a foot or two between the winners and losers. None of the college men who took part in similar events in the intercollegiate meets last year were entered and everyone thus had an equal chance to take a place in the races.

The club executive intend to make Saturday's events first of a series of similar competitions to be run off every week-end, with the object in view of discovering and developing promising material among the skiers and snowshoers, besides affording an opportunity for the beginners at the art to see some of the experts in action. No prizes will be awarded for these meets, as they are more in the nature of practice workouts than actual races. As soon as the jump at the Stadium is ready for use, a novice competition will be held, and in the meantime a cross-country run and other events are slated for the near future.

The list of events and winners follows:
First 100 yard ski dash: Won by A. Starke, with A. Gravel second, and P. Costigan third.
Snowshoe dash, 100 yards: Won by G. Grimsom, with Wally Mitchell second.

Second 100 yard ski dash: Won by R. Whittall with Starke second, and A. Gravel third.

Y.M.C.A. DEFEATS McGILL BASKETBALL

16-10 Defeat at Y. M. Saturday Night

With five minutes to go and a score of 10-4 against them, McGill started a rally of shooting and piled the score to 10-9 in the intermediate basketball game against Central Y.M.C.A. Saturday night. It was no use, however, for Y.M.C.A. quickly showed their better shooting ability by getting baskets one after the other until the final score was 16-10. The game was a clean, fast one, from start to finish, and only lacked in the point of shooting. McGill was particularly poor at shooting, but showed some splendid team work in their combination. The Y.M.C.A. team, although not as good team players, showed better individual work, and better shooting. At the end of the first period, the game stood Y.M.C.A. 6-0, but McGill rallied well in the second half, and gave the Y.M. fellows a hard play for their win. The last half showed some very fast play, worthy of Senior teams.

Rafalovitch played the best game for McGill, and Wright played a splendid game for the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Sodon, a City and District League official, proved to be a very exacting but excellent referee. The timekeepers were Firminger, of the Y.M.C.A. and Brown, of McGill. The line-up was as follows:—

Make Your Dollar Stretch

THE purchasing power of a dollar bill has shrunk considerably in the last ten years. There has never been a time when discriminate buying paid bigger dividends.

Every day this newspaper contains information that you should have to increase your buying power. The advertisements are intimate little lessons in every-day economy. They teach you how, when and for what your dollar will go farthest.

To those who know how to use it, newspaper advertising is a watchdog of dollars—a continuous source of economy and satisfaction. Merchants tell of their bargains through the advertisements. Almost every new opportunity is offered through an advertisement. Practically every unusual buy is advertised.

You can stretch your dollar to its elastic limit by keeping abreast of the opportunities to get full value.

There's just one way to do this.

STUDENTS OF EUROPE IN U.S.

Party of Foreign Students Touring America

Under the auspices of the National Student Forum a number of students, in number, representing different universities of Europe, are travelling America on a lecture tour.

The Mission will visit about 50 universities in all, and will extend its lectures over a period lasting until May.

There are students representing the University of London, the University of Leiden, the University of Heidelberg, the International Peoples' Institute, Alsmore, and the Universities of Copenhagen and Prague.

The party will be divided, three students under the leadership of John Rothchild, the executive secretary of the forum, and will visit the colleges in the East and Northern States; the other three, under the guidance of George D. Pratt, Jr., foreign secretary and treasurer will go through the Western and Southern States.

Some of these were present at the Students' Conference in Toronto, and it is felt that they will be successful in bringing about a closer feeling between the nations and clearing away some of the misunderstanding which now exists.

EXCAVATION WORK IN EGYPT TO BEGIN

Two members of the Egyptian expedition of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York, sail from Boston shortly on the White Star liner Celtic, for Naples whence they return to their concessions for excavating in Egypt, one at Lish, about 30 miles south of Cairo in the valley of the Nile and the other within the necropolis of ancient Thebes on the western bank of the Nile some 500 miles south of the Mediterranean.

The Metropolitan Art Museum has enjoyed these concessions for excavating in the valley of the Nile for about 15 years and each year since then has sent out its expeditionary force. The practice is for the excavators to work from late autumn until the middle of the following spring and return to the United States for the summer months.

This year there will be seven or eight members in the expedition. The members leaving Boston will be joined in a few weeks by the remaining members of the party. This year the work will be at the tombs in the necropolis near the present Egyptian town of Luxor. The work of excavation is carried on about three miles back from the banks of the Nile as the ancient Egyptians built their temples and mausoleums on the edge of the desert and very often into the base of the lofty sandstone cliffs which rise from the boundaries of the narrow fertile strips of land which border the banks of the river.

So far the most popular of the Metropolitan Art Museum party's excavations have been the 20 to 24 models of funerary found in the Theban mausoleums and which are placed on exhibition in New York in 1920. The expeditionary forces are required to leave with the Cairo museum one-half of all articles excavated.

MIDNIGHT SESSIONS MOST ENJOYABLE

Midnight sessions are among the most enjoyable experiences in college life. No class room discussion can possibly take the place of the friendly, rambling, soul revealing sort of argument that most of us carry in our memories as the choicest part of our undergraduate days. Count not that time lost, which is stolen from studies and dull, profitable education to drag discussion through interminable windings while the room is filled with the atmosphere of philosophy and tobacco smoke, and the hands of the alarm clock, which is to ring at seven, slowly move around to four o'clock in the morning.

That is the time when friendship is tested and tempered, when toleration and fair-mindedness are taxed to the limit, when Utopian schemes are advanced to reform religion, college politics, or the social system. That is the time when generous or impracticable impulses have full sway, when man meets man without the deceiving mask of manner and custom, on a basis of complete acceptance and equality. That is the time when a man forgets that he has always considered it immodest to expose his own feelings and beliefs, and when he speaks the thoughts that are in his mind with full assurance of understanding. That is the time when friends are made whom we mean to keep through life.

Finally, the conversation lags and dulls, and the host shows by nods and yawns that he is sleepy, and he opens the door to say "Good night," with a lack of politeness that at any other time would arouse resentment. One then takes his feet off the furniture and dumps the ashes from his pipe on the floor, departing to leave the cool night wind to blow away the tobacco smoke, and the host to snatch a few hours' sleep before daylight.

The midnight tour is the supposed it is the course in human psychology mythical education one gets from heart-to-heart contact with his fellows, that is not based on scientific laws nor book theorems; it is the period of broadening one's mind, intellect, and, most of all, sympathy. If there is one thing in a college education that the commuter misses it is that learning acquired from midnight hours of discussion, confiding, and confession. It is that hour of life with one's associates that should make the parent and the students themselves realize what they are losing by living at home away from the atmosphere and contact of the human feelings of the College.—California Spectator.

HUBBY CORROBORATED.

"James!" cried Mrs. Timmid, sitting up in bed, "there are burglars downstairs!"

Mr. Timmid, wishing to quiet her fears, replied: "Oh, no dear."

"I'm sure there are," insisted Mrs. Timmid.

"Well, I'm sure there aren't."

"James, I tell you there are."

"I tell you there isn't a burglar downstairs!"

"Your husband is right, mum," interposed a low-browed individual, who thrust his head into the room at this juncture; "we're upstairs."

ity combined their Protestant churches. "Church Union" is considered an accomplished fact in the West which has caught the spirit of the times.

A little over fifty years ago, said Dr. Oliver, the Presbyterian Church in Canada sent out its first foreign missionaries who went to the present province of Saskatchewan, then considered a foreign land. Three years later, the territory had a bumper crop of 600 bushels of grain. Last year, the province produced more grain than all the other provinces together with only one acre out of ten under cultivation. There is a similar growth in religious work and today the West has 2,123 preaching stations as compared with 2,124 in the East, and requires more.

Dr. Oliver declared that the ecclesiastical leaders in the West had not fostered Church Union but that it was the result of the rapid settlement, development and problems of the country. Owing to the fact that leaders were few, the Church was very grateful to the great assistance received from students who unfortunately only gave about eighteen weeks of the year. In many communities, the different denominations worship together in the school house and when they can afford it in a little community church. As their settlements grow larger, they know of no reason for trying to build and maintain two or three other churches in the same place. Throughout extensive districts, there is therefore only one thriving Protestant Church at each point instead of two or three struggling ones.

"The West confidently expects that the Presbyterian Church does what the General Assembly three times and the Church twice agreed to do," concluded the speaker.

Principal Oliver came East to address the National Students' Conference at Toronto, and declared that he was greatly inspired by the assemblage of 700 representative students, with whom largely lay the future of the Dominion.

MOVING PICTURE OF UNIVERSITY LIFE

"A Journey About Purdue," a three reel moving picture is being taken of University life to be released and shown shortly. The film is a part of the informational and news service of the University and is being taken under the personal supervision of T. R. Johnston, director of the University News Service.

The picture will be in a story form and will depict every phase of student life and activity. It will be sent to high schools throughout the country and will be shown at meetings both of high school students and alumni. County agricultural agents will take care of the showing of this film in many centres. In addition to being shown throughout the country, it will be sent to all of the larger alumni centres over the country.

MUCH ALREADY DONE.
Much of the picture has already been taken. Five hundred feet of the required three thousand are finished. Approximately twenty-five hundred feet will be taken at this time and the remainder will be taken from a film used and owned by the Alumni Association. Their film is about fourteen hundred feet in length and only parts of this will be shown.

Scenes which have been taken up to the present time include Dad's Day and the Wabash game, Homecoming festivities the Indiana game, Union Memorial building cornerstone laying, R. O. T. C. activities, and pictures of work in the shops and Practical Mechanics building. Others to be taken will include pictures of students at work both in the engineering laboratories and on the agricultural side of the campus.

It is intended to finish the entire picture before the holidays, so that it may be shown here immediately after the students return. After the first showing here it will be sent over the state. E. R. Irion, of Lafayette, has been taking the scenes. It is the first time that such a picture has been taken for general use.

If a small boy wins ten marbles in one day and it takes four eggs to make a certain cake, how long will it take a cross-eyed cricket to lick a cockroach with a cork leg? Why?

OLD TIME MOUNTED MEN ENFORCE LAW

Although horse thieves have become as obsolete as the horses they once confiscated, detective corporations for the suppression of the culprits remain. Monroe County, Indiana, however, infested by motorized vehicles as it is, has not seen the organization of such a corporation within its boundaries until recently.

Antique in name, the corporation will perform duties of a very modern type. Its members will not organize in posses and ride horses recklessly over the state for the purpose of catching the type of criminal who was most hated of all in the days of mid-western cow-punching. Instead, a systematic effort will be made to assist officers of the law in tracing auto thieves and other criminals.

Members of the corporation will have full police power and will work in conjunction with county and state officials at all times. Q. Austin East, prosecuting attorney, declared yesterday, C. E. Edmondson, Clark Runkin, and other University and business men are members of the corporation.

INDIANA DAILY STUDENT.
The organization as a body will conduct its affairs as any lodge or fraternity, members stated. Final organization will not be completed, however, until Charles Lowe, of Covington, Ind., state organizer arrives to install the local company which will be one of 87 in the state.

"County officials throughout the state depend to a great extent upon the work of the detective corporations," Prosecutor East stated yesterday. Their actions are entirely within the limitations of statutes governing the functioning of fraternal organizations.

ment will prevent (prevents) him from accepting," or "Mr. Smith will be (is) happy to accept."

"Want" should not be used in the sense of "wish", but rather in a sense of asking something; "negligence" implies failure to conform to an established custom, "neglect" means a failure to act; "mutual" means "reciprocal", and should not be used in the sense of shared and common; "pretty" should not be employed in a modifying sense nor as a synonym for "very"; "last" is frequently used for "latest." How many authors have been asked: "What is the title of your 'last' book?"

The list might be extended almost indefinitely, if one were to mark errors on nearly every page of the books he reads. One does not look for such carelessness in newspaper articles, but, as things go today, there are certain newspapers which maintain a standard considerably beyond that which is found in most of the short stories and novels we now read.—Christian Science Monitor.

"Have you heard the latest song, 'She's got Hives, That's Why She Calls Me Honey?'"—The Laurentian.
